

Improving Satellite Filing at the FCC

Presented By:

The International Bureau

June 26, 2003

Item Overview

- On June 26, 2003 the Commission adopted the Third Satellite Licensing Reform Order (FCC 03-154), a decision that allows the International Bureau to better support the FCC's mission to foster competition, effectively manage spectrum, and promote homeland security. The item adopted two interactive forms to make it easier to apply for satellite and earth station licenses, and to move closer to the goal of modernizing and streamlining the Commission's procedures.
- The first form, "Schedule S," consolidates and standardizes much of the information currently required in satellite applications. Schedule S will allow the Commission to:
 - Review applications more quickly,
 - Enhance our existing database so that information can be found more easily, and
 - Revise the International Bureau Filing System (IBFS) so that many calculations are done automatically.
- The second form, "312EZ," is a new, streamlined form for routine earth station applications.
 - The International Bureau will issue a public notice at least 30 days before routine earth station applicants will be required to use Form 312EZ.
- In addition, the item clarifies several Commission Rules, including the procedures for requesting milestone extensions, and for modifications of earth station licenses.
- Finally, the item adopted mandatory electronic filing for routine earth stations, comments, and petitions to deny, and invited comment on extending mandatory electronic filing to all satellite and earth station filings.
 - This requirement will take effect concurrently with the availability of Form 312EZ as discussed above.

A Glimpse of the Future of Satellite Filing

In the next 3 minutes, we will guide you through a virtual tour of the what the application filing experience can be in the future.

Let's begin the tour. ☺

After arriving at her law firm and getting a cup of coffee, an IBFS user logs into her personal digital desktop called "My IBFS".

At a glance, she checks the status of the filings she has already made. She notices that one of her applications has been granted. But that another is still under review.

And she sees that she has received an email from the Satellite Division requesting additional technical information.

She is able to quickly review the message and forward it to her engineer for action.

She then checks her personalized “watch list,” which she has previously set to monitor activities on certain call signs, file numbers, or company names.

It also helps her to keep track of important due dates.

Today, her watch list flags that one of her client’s licenses is due for renewal.

A year ago, everything she's done so far could have taken up half of her day.

Now she completes all of this before she's finished her first cup of coffee!

Let's see what her law clerk is doing....

Today he is preparing a satellite earth station application. He knows that the Commission created a streamlined process for routine applications, but he's not sure if his client qualifies.

However, he knows the Commission's new interactive system will help him through the process.

After selecting “earth station” from the application menu, he answers a few quick questions from IBFS.

Minutes later, IBFS tells him that his client does qualify for streamlining and prompts him to enter the required technical information.

Earth Station Application

312 EZ Qualification Interview

Are you applying for a NEW earth station license (i.e., one that has not been previously licensed)?

Will you operate your proposed earth station ONLY within the C-band (3700-4200 MHz and 5925-6425 MHz) or Ku-band (11.7-12.2 GHz and 14.0-14.5 GHz)?

Will you operate your proposed earth station ONLY with U.S.-licensed or Permitted List geostationary satellites?

Will your proposed earth station be a fixed earth station or temporary-fixed earth station that will operate only in the Fixed Satellite Service on a non-Common Carrier basis?

Do(es) your proposed antenna(s) comply with the antenna gain standard specified in Section 25.209(a) and (b) as demonstrated by the manufacturer's qualification measurements?

Does your proposed earth station operation conform with all routine power and power density rules contained in Sections 25.211 and 25.212?

You've Passed

Based on your responses to these questions, this application qualifies for streamlined filing and may be submitted on the 312 EZ form. Click Continue to complete the technical information portion of your application.

Finally, let's look at a satellite engineer on the West coast. Her company wants to launch and operate a new satellite, and she needs to research space station filing options.

With the Commission's first-come-first serve filing process, knowing who's in front of you in the queue is critical.

A year ago she would have had to do a lot of manual research to ensure she had complete and accurate information.

Now, with one click she goes to the IBFS satellite tracker, which shows information on licensed orbital locations in the V, Ka, Ku and C bands.

It also provides her information on pending applications. If she wants more detail, it's just another click away!

The tour is now completed, and you have seen a glimpse of the potential of the International Bureau's new filing system.

As has been the case with IBFS since its inception, the final design will be the product of a collaborative process between the FCC and our IBFS users.

For more information on the upcoming IBFS Enhancement Project and ways to get involved, contact Jacki Ponti at Jacki.Ponti@fcc.gov or Mary Jane Solomon at Maryjane.Solomon@fcc.gov
